

Custom packaging solutions

Do you have a shipment that requires extra care and that you want to protect? Or do you want to ship a large or unique package? Seabourne Logistics offers customized packaging solutions.

It all starts with the correct packaging

Seabourne's Operations department has a specialised service for packing and shipping fragile and expensive/luxury goods, as well as unusual or high-value shipments, such as art and antiques. In fact, the department handles anything that is difficult to pack or has non-standard dimensions. The department provides packaging and protection solutions to ensure your shipment is packed securely and/or airtight in accordance with courier safety standards.

Rest assured that we handle your goods with the utmost care. Our operations team manages a challenging client portfolio involving a wide range of requests. Every shipment is unique and requires a bespoke solution to ensure its safe delivery.

We consider the bigger picture when it comes to shipping. Where is the package going, and what is the location? How will we transport it? What is the best solution? Will it fit on a pallet or in a crate? We also assess the value of each shipment to ensure it is properly insured during transport. We often ask for a photo to help us get an accurate picture. This enables us to meet our customers' expectations and provide optimal packaging.

A unique feature of Seabourne: bottle packaging

Bottles are often shipped in large boxes and aren't always packed to meet courier safety standards. At Seabourne Logistics, we offer a unique service. We pick up the bottles from you and pack them individually according to courier safety standards. That way, you can be sure they'll arrive intact.

Just like this beautiful chest, which was shipped from an art auction in France, each piece is unique. We determine the best solution for each piece on a case-by-case basis. The same applies to the small tables purchased at an auction in the Netherlands and shipped to a private individual in China. The tables were wrapped in bubble wrap and placed in a box that was lined with styrofoam.

As an independent company, we can offer you a personalised service to ensure the handling and shipping of your irreplaceable items, whether they are small or large. Our packaging experts are on hand to provide expert advice. The general rule is that the more carefully a package is packed, the safer it is to ship, no matter its size.

Do you have any concerns about whether your shipment meets the shipping requirements or is properly packaged and of good quality? If so, please contact one of our account managers.
